

Kuka was a man of many firsts in my life. It is through him I have learnt a lot. He taught me the art of slaughter amongst other skills. He was the one who took me to my circumcision when he lured me using a packet of biscuits in 2001.

All in all he was a teacher, a mentor and a guide in my spiritual life. That is one gap, 'man of Israel', as he called me when whenever met that would be hard to fill.

No matter the pain of losing kuka, I hope to see my grandfather in the new world where we will enjoy to see you back stronger healthier and all smiles (Isa 65:20).
